Wedding Invitations

Your wedding invitations are the first glimpse your guests will have of your big day, so it's important to make a good impression. Here are a few things to keep in mind when choosing your invitations:

- Style: Your invitations should reflect the overall style of your wedding. If you're having a formal wedding, you'll want to choose invitations that are elegant and sophisticated. If you're having a more casual wedding, you can choose invitations that are more fun and whimsical.
- Color: The color of your invitations should complement the colors of your wedding. If you're having a spring wedding, you might choose invitations in a light and airy color, such as white or cream. If you're having a fall wedding, you might choose invitations in a more vibrant color, such as burgundy or gold.
- Wording: The wording of your invitations should be clear and concise. You'll want to include all of the important information, such as the date, time, and location of your wedding. You can also include a personal message to your guests.

RSVPs

RSVPs are a way for your guests to let you know whether or not they will be able to attend your wedding. It's important to include an RSVP card with your invitations so that you can get a headcount for your big day.

Here are a few things to keep in mind when designing your RSVP cards:

- Size: Your RSVP cards should be large enough to include all of the necessary information, but small enough to fit in an envelope with your invitations.
- Design: The design of your RSVP cards should complement the design of your invitations. You can use the same color scheme and fonts, or you can choose a different design that still reflects the overall style of your wedding.

- Wording: The wording of your RSVP cards should be clear and concise. You'll want to include all of the important information, such as the date by which your guests need to RSVP and the contact information for your wedding website.

Other Wedding Stationery

In addition to invitations and RSVPs, there are a number of other pieces of wedding stationery that you may need, such as:

- Save-the-dates: Save-the-dates are a great way to give your guests a heads-up about your wedding date. They can also be used to collect addresses for your invitations.
- Programs: Programs are a great way to provide your guests with information about your wedding ceremony and reception. They can also include a list of your wedding party and a timeline of the day's events.
- Menus: Menus are a great way to give your guests a preview of the food and drinks that will be served at your reception. They can also be used to accommodate any dietary restrictions.
- Thank-you cards: Thank-you cards are a great way to show your guests your appreciation for their presence on your big day. They can also be used to include a small gift, such as a photo from your wedding.

Timeline

Here is a general timeline for planning your wedding stationery:

- 12 months before the wedding: Free Download your save-the-dates.
- 8 months before the wedding: Choose your invitations and RSVP cards.
- 6 months before the wedding: Free Download your invitations and RSVP cards.
- 4 months before the wedding: Mail out your invitations.
- 2 months before the wedding: Free Download your programs and menus.
- 1 month before the wedding: Free Download your thank-you cards.
- After the wedding: Send out your thank-you cards.

Planning your wedding stationery can be a lot of work, but it's also a great way to personalize your big day. By following the tips in this guide, you can create beautiful and memorable stationery that will reflect your unique style and personality.
